Hello Kim:

The Superfund activity at the site is the remedial investigation. Since this is a slower process, EPA will hold a meeting informing of activities at the site, at most, every quarter. Those meetings will have a translator. The CAG and other groups will be invited to the meeting. The CAG will continue to receive access to draft documents through OneDrive.

Subject: EPA and CAG

Jesse,

As the CAG is a community resource offered by the EPA and the VB/I-70 has continuing work to educate community members and to advise on remaining activity within the site, I am contacting you to determine what resources the EPA will continue to provide to our group as it moves from a government led to community led group. The EPA website states:

What Other Support Can EPA Provide To Our CAG?

EPA, together with State/Tribal/local government(s), local universities, the PRP(s), and others, may assist the CAG with administrative support on issues relevant to the Superfund site cleanup and decision-making process. This may include support for arranging and documenting meetings, preparing and distributing meeting notices and agendas, duplicating site-related documents for CAG review, maintaining CAG mailing/distribution lists, and providing translation and meeting facilitation services when needed. If meeting facilitation is needed, it is preferable to use someone from the community with facilitation experience or a professional meeting facilitator. A neutral facilitator is particularly effective at sites where some controversy is anticipated.

Will the EPA assist us printing documents and translation services?

Regards,

Kim
